2009 HARVEST First Impressions...

My first micro-vinifications for the 2009 vintage started on 15th September in the heart of Terres d'Arômes....and what a way to start!

A healthy harvest, grapes collected at full maturity with a surprising aromatic potential. A very attractive vintage...nature has done me a great service. The grape tasting confirmed a perfect sugar-acidity-aroma balance.

My promises will be kept. For our high-end selection, the Terres d'Arômes wines will be a subtle blend of elegance, personality and aromatic purity.

Only my selection of the healthiest, most impeccable fruit, as for this 2009 vintage, allows me to create lively wines that are aromatic and round.

An essential stage of Burgundy winemaking is punching the cap during the vatting phase. It is a delicate task whereby I extract the anthocyanins and tannins. I take every effort to make sure that these extractions are as gentle as possible; above all I am looking for a balance based on pure and deep aromas of dark berries, on a velvety smooth background.
